Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

Integrative Health Promotion / Traditional Asian Health Emphasis

The Holistic Health Studies program, within the Department of Health Education at San Francisco State University, seeks applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Integrative Health Promotion/Traditional Asian Health Perspectives, beginning August 2016.

The department seeks individuals with a background in complementary and integrative health practices research and instruction, preferably with expertise in traditional Asian preventive health perspectives. This can include expertise in a traditional Asian medical system, such as Ayurveda or traditional Chinese medicine, meditation, ethnobotany, anthropology, history of medicine, ethnography, or other areas with relevance to integrative self-care and wellness promotion.

The Holistic Health Studies program, within the Department of Health Education, has been at the forefront of complementary and integrative health education, offering Holistic Health Studies courses since 1976. Faculty in the department are engaged teachers and scholars with diverse research interests and funding sources. The Department offers a BS and an MPH in Community Health Education.

QUALIFICATIONS

Doctoral Degree required (PhD, DrPH, or equivalent). Relevant training may include Psychology, Public Health, Medical Anthropology, Asian Studies, Biology, Human Ecology, Behavioral Medicine, Religious Studies, and Sociology. Possessing an MPH degree, licensure/training in a traditional medical system, and/or being bilingual in a relevant language are also valued.

RESPONSIBILITIES

The candidate will teach undergraduate courses in the Holistic Health Studies emphasis area in the Department of Health Education. Courses may include Holistic Health: Chinese Perspectives. Along with teaching, the position requires scholarly publication, developing a program of research and grants, university/community service, commitment to teamwork, and participation in both Holistic Health Studies and Health Education faculty activities.

RANK AND SALARY

Assistant Professor. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience. The CSU provides generous health, retirement and other benefits.

STARTING DATE

August 2016
